USIRO-RUSSIAN WAR HOVERS OVER EUROPE

Austrian Reservists ^{State Historical Society} called Out While Russia Is Now Holding Her Available Rolling Stock for an Emergency

LONDON Nov. 23.—According to the Chronicle's Vienna correspondent, three classes of the Austrian reservists have been called out. About 300,000 men, he says, have massed around the Servian frontier and equally steady preparations are going forward in Galicia.

"It is reported tonight that the Don Cossacks have been mobilized and that the Russian authorities are holding all available rolling stock on the lines running to the Austrian frontier," says a dispatch to the Daily Mail from Vienna.

Five large bridges spanning the Danube have only been suspended here have been closely watched pending by reason of Turkey's refusal to accept the first offer of the allies to double in order to prevent any reports from Sofia say Turkey's resuming with the bridges. On the junction of the preferred terms for an armistice occasioned no surprise. safety depends on the railway communications with the northern Three Bulgarians, representing the three northern kingdoms, have started to meet the front with the expectation of what conveniently could be meeting the Turkish plenipotentiaries. Triple Alliance Rumors Continue. Reports from Vienna announce that Albanians will proclaim their independence tomorrow at Durazzo. From this place, the Servians are within a five or six days' march. Vienna reports that there will be a joint Italian and Austria naval demonstration off that port.

The visit of the Austrian crown prince to Emperor William which is rumored to be massing officially stated to be for the purpose of keeping a long standing shooting engagement and a Berlin dispatch says the Austrian field marshal von Schlesien spent the day there in consultation with General Count von Moltke, chief of staff of the German army, keep alive speculation concerning the plans of the triple alliance.

Sights of differences among the signs over a division of spoils are cropping out. The Greek semi-official press claims that the issue of the war would have been different except for the imminent services of the Greeks in preventing 200,000 Turks from Asia Minor joining the army in Thrace.

ASQUITH AND REDMOND SPEAK ON HOME RULE FROM SAME PLATFORM

NOTTINGHAM, England, Nov. 22.—The unusual spectacle of Liberal and Nationalist leaders on the same platform at a political meeting was witnessed tonight when Premier Asquith and John Redmond addressed a great audience here on home rule. The premier also dealt with the war in the Balkans and other questions of the day. Because of fear of a suffragette outbreak almost the entire police force was on duty in the hall and its neighborhood, and a large body of officers was held in reserve in the basement of the building.

Recalling his speech in London, November 2, in which he made the statement that he believed it to be the unanimous opinion of Europe that the victors are not to be robbing of the victories that cost them so dearly, Mr. Asquith said:

"I endeavored to define in precise and clear terms the attitude of this country and the great powers with reference to the war which is raging in eastern Europe. That attitude has not, as far as I know, been in any way changed or modified. There may be certain questions which, in the best interest of peace and ultimate stability, it may be possible to be reserved to deal with when the time comes for a general and definite settlement."

Pledging the Liberal party to continue its efforts for home rule, Mr. Asquith declared, he would not be disengaged by any passing incidents, but was determined to proceed with the fight to the end.

John Redmond, in his address, said home rule was on the eve of the final victory. He declared that the Nationalists would support other features of the Liberal program.

AMERICAN RED CROSS ENDS HAND TO AID BALKAN WOUNDED

ASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Disraeli race and creed in the hour of need, the Red Cross has stretched a helping hand to the Red Crescent. Ambassador Rockhill at Constantinople today cabled the state department that the Red Cross relief organization in that city under American supervision, not only had supplied the Turkish cruiser Hamedeh into port at Constantinople to damaged from a Bulgarian torpedo boat.

Peace negotiations are believed to be progressing today.

THE PROGRESSIVES WIN OUT IN FIRST CONTEST

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Through defeat of a constitutional amendment providing that the delegates from each state or affiliated organization shall cast the full vote to that state or organization is entitled to at least one-fifth of the delegates are present, delegates of the western states were victorious in the first contest that has opened in the Women's National League convention. The western states supported Miss Addams in opposition to it.

Oliver H. P. Belmont of New York started enthusiastic cheering. It was introduced as "the woman left so much for her sex that she gone to the night court in New York to furnish bail for defenseless and who is one of the greatest of the cause of woman suf-

E. G. Perkins Well Known Pioneer Dies

E. G. Perkins, father of Dr. P. H. Perkins, died late last night at St. Francis hospital. He was nearly 77 years old, and was born December 3, 1833, in Joliet, Ill. He was one of the pioneers of the Elk's Peak region, coming here in 1858, and was county assessor for several years. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

COHAN SAID TO HAVE THREATENED WILSON

Authorities Believe Man Held Here Dangerous if Liberated

"I will kill Woodrow Wilson if I ever get the chance. It never will do to let a man of his religious and political beliefs become president of the United States."

In a cell in the county jail where he was locked Wednesday on a charge of creating a disturbance in a hotel on West Huertano street, John J. Cohan yesterday boasted to detectives that he is an anarchist, as he gazed at a miniature picture of the martyred McKinley. The picture was taken from him yesterday.

What is feared is to be an actual plot against the life of President-elect Wilson was disclosed yesterday in an investigation which is being conducted by Detective Raibisch. Cohan, it is alleged, confided his plans for assassination to an associate whom he had first vowed with fear and pledged to secrecy under penalty of death.

From the lips of this man, who fears that Cohan may wreak vengeance upon him if his identity is revealed, the authorities learned of the alleged plot charged against Cohan.

Prisoner is Non-Committal.

Cohan, himself, is non-committal as to whether he is a member of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers.

The convention also refused to take any action in the dispute between the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and steamfitters.

Other resolutions adopted by the convention were, "That delegates to the convention, on their return, advise their International Unions and local bodies to provide financial assistance for the trade-unionists on trial in Indianapolis, to aid them in obtaining a fair trial and in appealing the case, should a fair trial be denied them."

The resolution also urged the men on trial be "not condemned in advance on the decision in their cases influenced" by the allusion that certain corporations and a private detective agency are clamoring for a conviction.

It was decided by a vote of 1,561 to 1,322, more than the two-thirds majority required, to revoke the charter of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers.

The convention also refused to take any action in the dispute between the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and steamfitters.

Scores of newspaper clippings reviewing the career of the president-elect were found in Cohan's pockets when he was taken to the jail. These fragments from the newspapers give almost a complete political and religious biography of Wilson, and are covered with finger marks as though they had been frequently read.

Watched by Secret Agents.

Cohan admitted to the police that he has been under surveillance of secret service officers, and was arrested and held for investigation in New Orleans during a visit of President Taft and in Chicago while Roosevelt was there.

Although he leads interviewers to infer that he had a deadly mission in both New Orleans and Chicago, Cohan takes care not to incriminate himself deeply.

Why did the secret service officers arrest you, Cohan?" he was asked yesterday.

"Because I got altogether too close

Andrew J. Gallagher, prosecuting attorney of the California State Federation of Labor, raised the question of financial aid to the men on trial in Indianapolis. He offered an amendment to the report of the committee on the president's report, providing that the balance in the McNamara defense fund be devoted to the defense of the Indianapolis defendants.

His amendment was rejected by the chair on a point of order that the money in question is in the custody of the McNamara defense committee and therefore not at the disposal of the

POSTPONE HAWTHORNE TRIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The federal trial of Julian Hawthorne and others interested in the Hawthorne mining enterprises on indictments charging misuse of the mails was again postponed today until Monday next.

Judge Backus' ruling said:

"The court now finds that the defendant, John Schrank, is insane, and therefore, incapacitated to act for himself. It is, therefore, ordered and adjudged, that the defendant, John Schrank, be committed to the Northern Hospital for the Insane near Oshkosh, in the county of Winnebago, state of Wisconsin, until such time as he shall have recovered from such insanity, when he shall be returned to this court for further proceedings according to law."

"And it is further ordered that all proceedings in this case be saved indefinitely until such recovery."

Before being led back to jail to await preparations for the trip to the asylum, Schrank said:

"I had expected that they would fine me insane because it was in the paper two days ago. I want to say now that I am sane and knew what I am doing all the time. I was called upon to do a duty and have done it."

"The commission has sworn away my life. Each member went on the stand and said I was incurably insane. They can do what they want with me now. I don't care what happens now."

Commission was pronounced after the presentation of an exhaustive report by the commission.

District Attorney Zabel submitted a number of questions to each of the alibiists, all of which brought forth similar responses, the substance of which was that Schrank was suffering from chronic paranoia.

If no cure is effected he will spend the rest of his life in the asylum.

Progressive action was announced following receipt in Los Angeles of an earnest telegram from Governor Hiram W. Johnson at Sacramento reporting the date provisionally set by law for certifying returns from the state as a whole, he would wait until Los Angeles county reported.

In this he is understood to have the support of the office of the attorney general but if proceedings promised by the Progressives necessitate recounts in many counties, it became a question tonight how long Jordan could hold off.

PROGRESSIVES WIN REVERSE TABLES ON DEMOCRATS IN CAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Seventeen days after the national presidential election, the question whether Wilson or Roosevelt carried California was tonight in a worse tangle of legal complications and threatened lawsuits than at any previous time. The outcome is utterly beyond prediction.

Progressive leaders, disappointed by a court decision in Los Angeles invalidating totals for electors in precincts where the election judges had thought to save time and trouble by not putting down tally marks for any elector except the top on each ticket, took heart today and decided to institute like proceedings in all the counties of the state which showed a plurality for Wilson.

This prospective action was announced following receipt in Los Angeles of an earnest telegram from Governor Hiram W. Johnson at Sacramento reporting the date provisionally set by law for certifying returns from the state as a whole, he would wait until Los Angeles county reported.

turns from the state as a whole, he would wait until Los Angeles county reported.

ARREST MAN IN DENVER MAY SOLVE KIDNAPING

DENVER, Nov. 1.—A suspicious manner and number of lies that a man giving the name of Harry French carried to Mrs. Anna Wallace's head of the Associated Charities Monday night when he sought aid for himself and a 7-year-old companion has caused the police to believe they have seized a kidnapping case that has been in the newspapers before lately. Through the activity of Mrs. Wallace, it was this Friday evening after he was seen in the city, he was arrested and his family should have seen him again.

Mr. Williams and the police believe the boy is D. Wm. Dale and his mother is Mrs. Mayd Dale formerly of Ernest, Tex., butately of San Diego, Calif. They believe the man who brought the boy to Denver did so at the request of Mrs. Dale so that her son, L. V. Dale, a resident of Tiverton, could obtain possession of him. The husband obtained a divorce from Mrs. Dale with the custody of the boy and another child, Laura, but it is said Mrs. Dale kidnapped the children and went to San Diego with them. The husband went there to regain possession of them.

It was applied for aid to Mrs. Williams and explained that his wife who was to come in will see him here from San Diego. His character should have seen him again.

had failed to do so. He asked for aid from the money he had, or he heard from his friends. As both the man and boy were well dressed and there were contradictions in the stories he told Mr. Williams became suspicious and after investigation asked that he be arrested.

horse-drawn vehicles to the double-decker stepless car that is soon to be put into operation on Broadway. Nearly 70 distinct types of cars have been used in New York since the first street railway was established. Horse cars were followed by cable cars and then by electric cars of many varieties, the latest being the "pay-as-you-enter the bubble skirt or stepless car and the double-decker."

REBELS FIRE ON PASSENGER TRAIN

Reported Again That Attack Is to Be Made on City of Juarez

EL PASO Tex., Nov. 22—Refugees arriving tonight on a marooned passenger train report further destruction of the Mexican Central railway below Juarez by rebels who fired into the train on which rode 200 persons, among whom were many American women and children. The bulletins struck high on the coaches, injuring no one—but causing a panic among the women passengers. Bridges were burned ahead and behind the trains and it was necessary to build a temporary track before proceeding to the border. The rebel general Marcelo Caraveo is operating below Juarez with 500 men. He apparently awaits a junction with General Antonio Rojas, who has about the same number, and with Diaz Salazar, who yesterday took the port of Palomas on the New Mexico border. After this mobilization of forces the rebels are expected to move on Juarez defended by less than 600 federal troops with practically no artillery.

Major McDonald of the Thirteenth United States cavalry, stationed at Columbus, N. M. had a conference to day with General Salazar who rode from Palomas to the international boundary to meet the American officer.

The rebel leader stated that he had taken 80 federal prisoners and that 14 fedals had been killed in the Palomas attack. He said that his men took possession of 16,000 rounds of ammunition and 150 rifles which will make possible the recruiting of Salazar's force to 500 men.

Wyman said he never had seen the bonds, but that the loan was made to the Idaho Northern Railroad company in which O'Neill was interested.

RENO, Nev., Nov. 22—H. S. Weems, said to be from Baltimore, shot and mortally wounded Mrs. Estelle W. Baggot of Los Angeles, and then committed suicide in a private bathing pool of a bathing resort near Reno today.

The pair, who had met before in Los Angeles, according to letter found, renewed acquaintance here last night and a violent quarrel followed. In the afternoon they went to the bathing resort together and in a short time the woman ran out crying she had been shot. Two more reports were heard and Weems was found dead in the water with a bullet in his head.

The witnesses testified also that the veterans who made these statements did so under pledges of strict secrecy, as they were in constant fear of getting the gate."

Gault said he dragged the body to a plowed field where he buried the couple, and when his mother returned, declared that during her absence a stranger had induced his stepfather to go on a trip to eastern Oregon on a mining proposition. This explanation of his stepfather's disappearance, Gault said, was accepted by everybody except his mother, who from time to time urged him "If he had anything on his mind" to confess it. His mother's repeated urging led the young man to leave home, he said, and go to Astoria. It was while in that city he was overcome by the fear that if he did not confess his deed that he would go insane.

Pending investigation of the truth of the young fellow's statement, he was locked up.

YOUTH CONFESSES TO KILLING STEPFATHER

FORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 22—Glen E. Gault, aged 19, walked into the police station early today with the statement that he wished to give himself up because he had killed his stepfather two years ago. Gault said that constant brooding over the slaying and the desire to tell some one of it was driving him crazy.

This in substance is the statement made to the officers at police headquarters.

In his mother's absence from home, his stepfather, D. M. Leitzell, had threatened him with a paring knife on the Leitzell farm near Mount Angel, Oregon. Gault was chopping wood at the time and, frightened, he said, at his stepfather's menacing attitude, he struck blindly at Leitzell with his ax and followed the blow with others, until Leitzell was dead.

SALES INCREASE DESPITE THE HARVESTER TRU

CHICAGO Nov. 22—Counsel for International Harvester company scored on one of the government's cases on the hearings in the federal suit to dissolve the Harvester company, today.

Paul D. Middlekuff president of Acme Harvesting Machine Company, Peoria, Ill., said to be one of the competitors of the alleged trust, admitted under cross-examination, the output of his company had increased steadily for the last year.

In 1908, the Acme company made 2,588 binders and 3,488 mowers according to Middlekuff's own estimate. The 1912 output will be 11,000 binders and 9,000 mowers.

This does not seem to indicate the defendant company throttled competition as charged by the government, said Attorney William D. Hugh, chief counsel for the Harvester company.

VIRGINIA STRIKE IS JUST ABOUT ENDED

Miners Are Given Material
Concessions by the Mine Owners

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 22.—What is believed to forecast the end of the great coal strike in the Kanawha coal fields of West Virginia, was announced today in a signed wage agreement between the union miners and the officials of the National Bituminous Coal and Coke company. The agreement practically recognizes the union, provides for an increase of about 21 per cent in wages, reduces tonnage, permits the miners to organize, provides a nine-hour day and gives the men now on strike preference if they should desire to return to work.

The miners are jubilant tonight. The agreement will affect 600 union miners now on strike. With these men returned to work, the end of the strike, it is said, is in sight.

AUSTRO-RUSSIAN WAR

our right wing today. The enemy's battery in the environs of Ezzeddin fired on our works at Mekteibeharbi, to which our batteries replied. In reconnaissances on the left wing, we collected a quantity of army effects abandoned by the enemy. The Bulgarians also bombarded Bivik Chekmeyde, on the sea of Marmora, firing 50 shells. The fleet replied and silenced the enemy's guns.

"Last night our reconnaissances advanced as far as the village of Ezzeddin and drove back the enemy, inflicting a heavy loss and silencing artillery posted on the heights near the village. At intervals, this morning, the enemy's batteries in the environs of Ezzeddin reopened fire, but the effect of the cannonade was unimportant."

Exclude War Correspondents.

Another telegram, sent by Nazim Pasha at 9 o'clock tonight, says reconnaissances by his men within a radius of four or five miles from the center of the Tchatalia lines, showed the ground littered with the bodies of several thousand Bulgarians.

During the last week strict precautions have been taken to exclude war correspondents and sightseers from the Tchatalia lines. Mounted gendarmes have arrested all persons visiting the vicinity unauthorized, and sent them back to Constantinople. Gendarmes were even posted at the gates of the city to prevent the exit of sightseers. Nevertheless, in a few instances, generally by disguising themselves as Turkish officers, war correspondents have been able to escape this vigilance but only for short periods.

Arrests of members of the Young Turks party continue. The latest of these include Djelal Halli and Dedeimdin, former ministers of the interior, and Evkaf, former minister of works.

TRIAL OF RIOTERS NOT YET COMPLETE

SALEM, Mass., Nov. 22.—More delay in bringing to an end the trial of Ettor, Giovannitti and Caruso for the Lopizzo murder in the Lawrence textile strike seemed certain when court adjourned tonight with District Attorney Atwill's closing argument not completed.

In his argument today the district attorney dwelt chiefly on Caruso's connection with the case.

The evidence, argued the prosecutor, showed that on the night of the killing a crowd of men acting concertedly went from Common street to Union and Garden streets, "bent upon an unlawful purpose."

"If we have proved," he said, "that the defendant, Caruso, was in that crowd and you are satisfied that he was there, he is as guilty as the man who pulled the trigger of the revolver. In this case all we have to do to establish the murder is to show that one member of the crowd discharged the pistol which killed Anna Lopizzo."

federation, James B. Conniff of the International Brotherhood of Foundry Employees presented the motion urging international and local labor bodies to give financial assistance to the accused men. The motion was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Gompers Condemns McNamaras.

The president's report committee defined the attitude of the federation in the so-called "dynamiting" cases, including the McNamara cases, in these words:

"The American labor movement, as represented in the American Federation of Labor, will neither countenance nor condone anyone who, under the cloak of trade unionism, undertakes to carry on a criminal warfare on society. Those some of these are guilty of carrying on such a warfare appears from the confessions they have made relative to their connection with these crimes. That every man must be considered innocent until he has been proved guilty, has always been accepted as a fundamental principle of our jurisdiction, and in the consideration of his case before the courts he is entitled to a full and impartial trial."

DR. PRICE'S CREAM Baking Powder

Purity in food, lower cost of living these are the demands of the day.

Pure food is health, and health is economy itself. We cannot have health without healthful food.

The most healthful foods are the quickly raised flour foods—biscuit, cake, muffins, crusts and other pastry when perfectly made from wholesome ingredients.

Dr. PRICE'S baking powder makes these foods in specially attractive, appetizing and wholesome form, and for both economic and hygienic reasons, such foods should be more largely substituted for meat in the daily diet.

But bear in mind that alum, or unwholesome baking powder, can never make pure, wholesome food.

PERSINGER, GREATEST VIOLINIST, HOME AFTER CONQUEST OF EUROPE

through morning camp, if he learned to play the violin so that they could play together. When he broached the subject of a violin for a Christmas present, her husband declared that the boy would soon be playing in dance halls and saloons, but Mrs. Persinger persisted, and Christmas morning Louis became the proud owner of a violin and bow which cost $15. It is a "source of great regret" to Persinger now that he has never been able to locate that first violin. His first lessons were from a German teacher, who soon left, with the gold seekers for Alaska, but before he went, he said to Mr. and Mrs. Persinger: "The boy has perfect intonation. My advice to you is to take him back to the fatherland."

That winter the family moved to Colorado Springs, and there he began the first real lessons with Prof. Edwin Stratton, and later studied with Mrs. Monte Drisco. At this time he was attending the Garfield School. When he was 12, he accompanied his mother on a visit to Oklahoma and Kansas, and while on this visit gave several recitals in little country churches. The mother was even then dreaming of the trip to Europe and into a savings bank went every cent made from the proceeds of half the receipts of those little concerts.

Sought Stratton's Aid.

Upon their return to the Springs, Mrs. Persinger decided to seek aid of Winfield Scott Stratton, so she dressed her boy in his Sunday clothes, told him just what to say, and sent him off. For five days Louis made daily trips to Stratton's home and to his office, and each day as he was allowed time to enjoy the music. That turned away, he grew more and more disheartened. The fifth day he was prompted an interview on the morrow; but, heartbroken at what he believed was an excuse to put him off, he went home, sobbing, and told his mother that it was of no use. But she, who had seen him on up and on each year to greater victories by her unchanging belief in him, and her faith that all things would come if they but worked and waited, sent him back for the sixth day, and Stratton interested in the little fellow's persistence, consented to see him.

Louis was very much frightened when he finally found himself in Stratton's presence, but managed to explain that he wanted to earn some money, and had come to ask if he might play for Mr. Stratton during his dinner hours that winter. Stratton laughed and asked him what he played.

"The fiddle," was the answer. "A fiddle? Well, now, if you played the piano, we might talk it over, but I haven't any use for a fiddle."

"Oh, but sir," the boy exclaimed, "I can play the piano just as well."

So Stratton hurried again and told him to come that night and bring his piano.

Makes Him "Official" Violinist.

At 7 o'clock that evening, Mrs. Persinger led a trembling, frightened son into the big hall of Stratton's home, and there they played "something briefly" to amuse the old gentleman. Before the little concert was half over, the old man had jumped up from his dinner, and, with a napkin crushed between his hands, came out from his office, and each day as he was allowed time to enjoy the music. That turned away, he grew more and more disheartened. The fifth day he was prompted an interview on the morrow; but, heartbroken at what he believed was an excuse to put him off, he went home, sobbing, and told his mother that it was of no use. But she, who had seen him on up and on each year to greater victories by her unchanging belief in him, and her faith that all things would come if they but worked and waited, sent him back for the sixth day, and Stratton interested in the little fellow's persistence, consented to see him.

TO SAVE THE NATION

THE constitution of the United States is in deadly peril. The result of the recent election proves how imminent is the destruction of the venerated document. So warns the staid old Public Ledger of Philadelphia. The frightened Ledger fears that not only do all Progressives lack proper reverence for the constitution as the be-all and end-all of our national existence, but that the 800,000 Socialists and at least three-fifths of the Democrats, the former Bryanites, are as bad as the Progressives in their desire to see the constitution changed.

While it is true, the Ledger believes, that "it is wholly improbable that the great mass of the reckless vote can be got together on one side as long as the two great parties exist," it fears the extinction of one at least of these parties, and the uniting of the "reckless vote" under one leadership. And then might come that chaos sure to follow if the people of the United States should assert, for instance, that final authority over their judiciary that the people of every other civilized nation in the world have long exercised.

The P. L. can see but one hope for our threatened institutions, and that is for every friend of the constitution to line up behind President Taft in forming an organization "which shall have as its chief object the protection of the constitution against the latter-day assaults and the dissipation of the mischievous notions of recent origin that the institutions of the republic which have stood the test of wear and tear in times of greatest stress and peril have somehow outworn so that they lag superfluous on the stage."

The Ledger hopes that President Taft will not confine his organization to Republicans alone, but will throw its portals wide for the admission of men of all parties who see in the initiative, referendum and recall the portents of certain ruin. Even the colleges, mourns this journalistic Jeremiah, can no longer be counted upon as bulwarks of the constitution. They have been invaded by "zealots and amateurs whose stock in trade consists of the last book on Socialism or the latest and most catchy treatise on sociology."

It is well, then, in the Ledger's opinion, that "the elder statesmen" should combine to teach political history and to instruct the people in the art and science of government, as it is illustrated by the experience of England and America.

The Public Ledger apparently can see no humor in the spectacle of such "elder statesmen" as Penrose, Aldrich, Barnes, Cannon, Lorimer, Bailey, Crane and others of that ilk repudiated by the people, instructing the nation in the "art and science of government."

And why mention England? Is not the Public Ledger aware of the fact that a "mere 'him'" of the English people may at any time, through act of parliament, overturn any of the time-honored constitutional safeguards of Britain? And has it forgotten that in England the people, through parliament, are at all times supreme over their courts, which have no power to declare laws passed by parliament unconstitutional?

All that the most rabid Progressive in the United States has ever asked has been the same control by the people of the United States over their government and their courts that the people of England have long had. It would be well, therefore, for the "elder statesmen" to leave English government out of their curriculum.

A DESPERATE VENTURE

JUST what Turkey hopes to gain by a continuance of the war against the Balkan allies is not clear. Turkey objected to the demand of the allies that, before an armistice be entered into, Adrianople and Scutari be surrendered. But Turkey can hardly hope to prevent the loss of those two cities. They are closely surrounded by superior forces of the allies, and the fall of each is only a question of time. Their fate is almost certain to be that of Monastir and Saloniki.

Turkey doubtless hopes that if the war is prolonged the powers will intervene. As reinforcements are coming up, possibly the Turks also believe they will be able to hold the Tchatalja lines, in spite of cholera and the allies. But, with the almost certain fall of Adrianople and Scutari, the allies will be able to throw all their armies against Constantinople, and it is difficult to see how the Turks could resist such a force, even if they should hold out against the present Bulgarian attack.

There is a chance, of course, that something may happen to let Turkey out on easier terms than she would have secured by an acceptance of the armistice offered by the allies. But, as against this, the chances are three or four to one that, when Turkey finally is compelled to sue for peace, harsher terms may be imposed than have just been so indignantly declined. For, if the Bulgars break through the lines at Tchatalja, the terms of peace will be dictated in Constantinople itself.

ELIMINATING THE ELECTORS

DIRECT election of the president is a reform that will be proposed during the coming session of congress by Senator Works of California. The electoral college is a thing of the past; the experience of California in this election has shown how dangerous the method might become in case of a close election. What if California's electors were to determine whether Wilson or Roosevelt were elected?

But there would never be such a closeness of the popular vote of the entire United States as there is sometimes in the separate states. Besides, under the electoral system it is possible for a minority candidate to be elected president, and this could never occur under the popular vote plan. Then the man with the largest popular vote would be president.

It will simplify and shorten ballots; moreover, to do away with the names of electors; the names of the candidates for president and vice president alone will be on the ballots if the Works plan is adopted.

REORGANIZATION

THAT was truly a historic conference that was held last Sunday afternoon in New York at the home of Henry W. Taft, when President William H. Taft and William Barnes, Jr., met to discuss the future of the Republican party. We can imagine the deep gratitude with which the president thanked his chief lieutenant for his services at Chicago in preventing the nomination of the man the party wanted. And we can imagine, too, with what pride Barnes pointed to the magnificent vote for President Taft, those eight electoral votes of Vermont and Utah as evidence of the esteem in which Barnes is held by the nation as proof positive of his surpassing leadership.

With a leader trusted by the people as is Barnes, backed by a man of such political acumen as William H. Taft, can anyone doubt but that the rehabilitation of the Republican party will be most rapid?

OPEN PARLIAMENT

(All letters intended for the Open Parliament must bear the name and address of the writer, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith. Controversial letters will not be published without the signature of the writer. Communications for this department should be limited to 400 words and should be free from personalities.)

MORMONISM.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

Noticing a stenographer at one of the lectures on Mormonism delivered last week by Mrs. D. B. Welles of Chicago, I naturally expected a publication on this licentious problem, but so far nothing has appeared. It seems that secret, undermining processes are the methods employed by these wolves in sheep's clothing.

Never using the name of Mormon, they have proselytized $2,000 in one year. In every state in this Union they are to be found, winning under innocent names even the most intelligent. The writer once in a far northern state played accompaniments for one of their sect in a church service, utterly unconscious of their creed—hearing a "B. A. etc." does not keep one from being an ignoramus in such cases.

Their sects positively affirm that they are in no way connected with the Mormonism in Utah. Then where does Mormonism draw its financial support?

This support is enormous, permeating all activities. Helen Gould was intercepted in her attempt against Mormonism by the power behind finance in railroads. The sugar beet factories in this beautiful state, it is asserted, are controlled by Mormons.

Ruth Cameron says: "In history, this might be termed the 'Golden Age,' so great is the worship of the almighty dollar," and the Mormons certainly have swayed into line with it.

In 1904 in Constantinople, viewing the Turk in his own domain, he was creature for abhorrence; but how much more abhorrent is this debauchery allowed in our own country! But the limit is reached when they brand our Lord, our Savior, our blessed Redeemer of mankind—the only name in heaven or earth that can make life worth the living—as a licentious! When they claim that he won his high place by the number of his progeny: Christ's kingdom was spiritual, not animal!

Hallelujah! To the 10 states now with equal suffrage, the omnipotent works by means. The so-called in the British empire are at present time calling themselves "asses and apes" and hurling things at each other. Similar occasions have occurred in our own branches of government in the United States, said by the speaker at the D. A. R. meeting last Monday to be the "greatest nation on earth."

But God is good and there is always hope from on high, and the union of good men and good women still we hope soon make it impossible for polygamy to exist in our borders.

SPECIAL STAMPS FOR PARCELS POST, From the Philadelphia Inquirer.

The public has been notified by the postoffice department that when the new parcels post service becomes effective, which will be on the first of the year, those using it must affix distinctive stamps to the articles they mail. It may be supposed that this requirement is for the purpose of showing the receipts from this source, and in this way of exhibiting the volume of the business. The service is admittedly experimental. There are those who have their doubts as to the desirability of the zone system. While the discussion was proceeding they favored the flat rate and not all of them have been convinced as to the superiority of the plan which has provisionally been adopted. They are glad to acquiesce in its installation as a step in the right direction, but they still have some misgivings as to the effectiveness of its operation.

It is because the service is experimental that the postoffice authorities are surrounding it with the restrictions and conditions which have been announced. One of these conditions is that every parcel must bear the return card of the sender, otherwise it will be refused. Another is that parcels are only to be mailed at such places as the local postmaster shall designate. Even since it became apparent that the institution of an efficient parcels post corresponding to the similar service which the European countries have long enjoyed could not be much further delayed here the department chiefs have exhibited a degree of trepidation upon the subject which to the mere layman has not been entirely intelligible. They have apparently been obsessed with the idea that they would be unable to handle the new business.

It may be suspected that these fears will prove to have been groundless. Although under the recently enacted law a considerable advance toward the better accommodation of the public in this respect has been made its provisions do not compare in liberality with those of several European countries. In Germany and Austria and elsewhere packages are mailable which weigh as much as 100 pounds, whereas in this country 11 pounds has been fixed as the weight limit.

That is a limitation which must confine the possibilities of the business within comparatively narrow bounds and the apprehension that as soon as the opportunity is afforded so many parcels will be mailed as to clog the department machinery will probably be found fallacious.

However, it is always prudent to go a little slow at first in any unfamiliar enterprise. After a while the restrictions may be relaxed and one that should be earliest rescinded is the one requiring a special stamp. It will be remembered that distinctive stamps were at one time required for special delivery letters. Such is not the case now. The original rule caused too much inconvenience.

BACK TO HIEROGLYPHICS?

From the Boston Dispatch.

Sir William Ramsay, the British scientist now lecturing in this country, has startled Boston by advocating a return to pictorial sign-writing as a medium of universal communication between peoples of varying languages. He bases it on Chinese, which is composed almost wholly of nouns, permitting the transmission of ideas by pictorial representations of objects, with a few characteristic additions expressive of place, time and action.

Believing it to be the fundamental idea, he adds an inverted "V" below it for man and draws a line connecting the feet to represent the skirt of woman.

Existence he expresses by the arithmetical sign for equality. Time is represented by a dot, so that a dot in the center of the equality sign reads "I am in front of it." "I was" after it "I am to be." Similarly, an arrowhead expresses motion, pointing to the right going to the left coming. Love is pictured by a heart. And so on. Sir William says the possibilities are endless, yet easily figured out. Possession, for instance, is expressed by attaching a hook to the figure.

Boston has gravely accepted the suggestion as made in all seriousness and no doubt we may soon hear of hieroglyphic clubs at work in the Hub. Less solemn communities will suspect that the distinguished British savant is "kidding" that center of learning. It has long been a popular belief on this side that no Englishman can see a joke. If Sir William succeeds in proving by diagram that Boston is equally dense it will be a royal revenge.

Mother or Sweetheart

By RUTH CAMERON.

Do you remember George Colman? Perhaps you have forgotten the name now, but I am sure you must have read about him some time ago in your newspaper, for he is the young bank cashier of a little town in Massachusetts whom, while working for $11 a week, stole nearly half a million dollars and was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment.

After the sentence had been passed Miss Hightower, the girl on whom he had lavished much of his money and to whom he was engaged, declared that she still loved him and that she would visit him and write to him as often as the rules allowed and would marry him when he got out of prison.

Needless to say his mother also declared that whatever the world might think of her son she still loved him and believed in him, and would do all she could for him during his prison term and afterwards.

In one of the yellow newspapers a picture of these two was published, and a query as to which would be true to him the longest. That question is now answered for the other day I read this item in my paper: "Miss Mamie Hightower of Kansas City, the girl who stood by George W. Coleman, the young Cambridge bank breaker, so staunchly when he was sent to Greenfield jail two years ago, now neither writes to him nor calls on him, according to dispatches received from Greenfield." And a week or two later I read another dispatch chronicling Miss Hightower's marriage to another man.

That is what two years have done for a sweetheart.

Right the little mother is still true to her boy. The superintendent of another big prison was telling about the prisoners' relationship with their friends in the outside world. "The wives and sweethearts are very affectionate at first," he said. "They write and visit the prison as often as the rules allow. But it doesn't usually take more than a year or two for their fervor to cool and bye-and-bye they don't come at all. In almost every case the only person who still waits for a man after a long time is his mother."

Don't things like that make you do some thinking about the infinite miracle of a mother's love?

I'll tell you what I thought of when I saw that item. I remembered a little story I read years ago. Once upon a time there was a man who was insanely in love with a very beautiful but very wicked and jealous woman. This vampire declared that she would not believe he loved her more than anyone else in the world until he should bring his mother's heart to her. The criminally infatuated man finally did this and, as he was bringing it he stumbled and fell, whereupon the mother's bleeding heart cried out: "Dost hurt thyself, son?"

There are many beautiful things in this beautiful world of ours, but do you think that in all the height and breadth of it there is anything more beautiful than a mother's love?

By GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Wendell Phillips was born in Boston, November 29, 1811, and passed the first 24 years of his life without getting interested in anything except the course of study at Harvard. For study was popular at Harvard in those days.

At the age of 24 Phillips suddenly became an abolitionist. Everyone was greatly shocked, for he was a young man of fine family and might easily have led a happy and useful life surrounded by people who were very hard to meet. But Phillips persisted and presently he made a speech in Faneuil Hall which caused him at once to be pronounced the best free hand, unhampered orator in the United States.

At this time, Phillips was only 26, but he took up the work of freeing the slaves as enthusiastically as if it paid dividends, and devoted his life to the work. Wherever nine or 14 people were gathered together in Massachusetts for 30 years there Phillips could be found addressing a few remarks on the subject of abolition. He was considered as good an orator as Webster and in those days a man who could climb aboard a mess of fleecy words and soar for an hour was considered to be greater than the man who could take the stock market and choke a million out of it.

When the Civil war ended, Phillips found himself without an occupation.

The slaves were freed and his large and well-selected stock of speeches had spotted on his hands. But he went right along advocating justice for the Indian, for the immigrant and for the criminal. He was strong for justice. Let anyone who was short of the commodity apply to Phillips and the letter would immediately begin a national campaign to stock him with an entirely fresh and up-to-date supply.

Phillips advocated the government control of wealth and was in many other ways so progressive that the nation is just catching up to him. He died in 1884, and if he still lived would be advocating a society for the protection of ex-presidents and other helpless individuals.

Lawrence, Kan.: Mr. J. F. Strome, of this city, says, "My wife suffered for ten years from womanly troubles, during two years of which she was totally helpless. She was examined by many physicians, some of whom gave her up to die. Finally she began to take Cardui, and since then has greatly improved in health. The tonic, strengthening, and restorative effects of Cardui, the woman's tonic, are the womanly constitution, are the most valuable qualities of this popular medicine. WOMEN, AVOID OPERATIONS

Many Unsuccessful And Worse Suffering Often Follows. Mrs. Rock's Case A Warning.

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will show how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when often it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for several months with much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did.

Today Lam well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it." —Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

CRIPPLE CREEK MINES

APPLICATIONS MADE TO LEASE REED PROPERTY

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—There have been seven applications for leases made to Mr. Terrell, superintendent of the Reed Investment company's properties in this district, to take hold of the Ross, Red Moon, Anchor and some of the Tendersell hill properties. It may be that the properties will be leased shortly as the Reed Investment company is offering some very favorable royalties and it is expected for this reason that their prospects will be started up.

The Rose Nickel on Battis mountain has been leased a greater portion of the time for the last few years.

SOLVE WATER PROBLEM BY USE ELECTRIC PUMPS

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—The water condition found in the two deep shafts of the east end of the district, the Vindicator and the Golden Cycle, has been overcome now, in the opinion of engineers, since the electric pumps have been started in operation in the Golden Cycle shaft.

At a greatly reduced cost the shafts of both the Vindicator and the Golden Cycle will be kept dry. The cost of operating the electric pumps will be one-half the cost of the steam pumps.

The water will be lifted 4,000 feet to the flooded level of the Cyclo shaft and it will then be allowed to escape through the tunnel.

The electric pumps have been given a thorough test and have been found to be entirely satisfactory.

With the solving of the water problem in the deep shafts of the east end of the district it may now be said that the water problem which has caused this camp for so number of years has now been entirely overcome since every mine in the west and in the district has been started in operation and kept running.

The electric company now proposes to pump water from below the level of the Roosevelt tunnel to the tunnel level at a cost cheaper than a fourth deep drainage tunnel could be constructed for.

SUB-LESSEES START WORK IN REJOA-SAVAGE MINE

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—Four sets of sub-lessees have entered the Rejoa-Savage mine on the east slope of Bearcat hill which was recently leased to Van Tilburg, Williams and Bogen of this city. The subs are J. R. Beck, H. W. Kilpatrick, J. S. Solberg and Joe Vetter.

All have started mining operations and the dust is flying at this property. The main lessee continues to sink the wing which was started by them in order to prevent the ore from being taken before it is consigned for the lower levels.

MAY FIND DOCTOR-JACK POT VEIN IN CAMILLA

Special to The Gazette

CRIPPLE CREEK, Nov. 22.—On the 1,600-foot level of the Camilla shaft, which is located on the east slope of Gaylor hill, Lessons A. J. Morrison and associates of St. Paul are continuing their drifts to the north in the hopes that the main Doctor-Jack pot vein will be opened. This drift has run near another 200 feet before it is expected to open the ore.

The Doctor-Jack pot vein is the prospective point of the lessons and they will proceed to open the country for another 200 feet.

The rock now broken is of a bright and is very soft.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—In foreign trade profit-taking sales, following yesterday's rise in stocks, were led by London, which was weaker, and prices eased off. In the morning, trading fell off to nominal proportions in the last half of the day, and prices were virtually at a standstill.

London selling was regarded as the significant development of the day. The market had been quiet, 30c to 30c higher, with no real movement. Share sales were held here by London, which had been reconnoitring American securities disposed of following the outbreak of the Balkan war. This selling was attributed in part to uneasiness over the relations by the Turkish government of peace terms. Another explanation was that the English were buying up gold for this country. A further engagement of $500,000 gold was announced today.

For a time today, there was some buying of stocks by traders who took the ground that strong influences from the bull side were responsible for yesterday's gains. This buying was concentrated on the stocks of the Standard Oil and London selling, the latter being the most effective in Union Pacific. Reading and Amalgamated Gas were restricted to fractions in most cases. Canadian Pacific stocks were quiet.

The bond market was quiet and irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,300,000.
